CHAPTER XI
How a small group of friends influenced the career of Woodrow Wilson

Woodrow Wilson's rise in the political world was not the result of a sudden stroke of good fortune. It was the result of a long and arduous struggle, a struggle in which he was aided by a small group of friends who believed in his ability and his vision. These friends were not powerful men, but they were men of great character and great courage. They were men who were willing to stand by him in the face of all opposition, and who were willing to sacrifice everything for his sake. It was their faith in him that gave him the strength to overcome all his enemies and to become one of the greatest leaders of his time.

For many years it has been contended by those who disliked Mr. Wilson's administration that he was a weakling, a man who was easily led, a man who was not capable of making his own decisions. But the truth is that Mr. Wilson was a man of great strength and great courage. He was a man who was not afraid to stand up for his beliefs, and who was not afraid to make sacrifices for the good of his country.

The letter not only discloses that when Mr. Wilson left Princeton he had in mind running for the Presidency of the United States but it reveals also the fact that he was not alone in his ambition. He had a number of friends who were also ambitious, and who were willing to support him in his quest for the Presidency.

My dear Thompson:
I would have given a great deal to see you before you left the country for I have needed your counsel very greatly. I have needed you to help me to see the things that I have not seen, and to help me to do the things that I have not done.

He has been asked by the men most influential in the Democratic party in New Jersey whether he would accept the nomination for governor at the autumn election. It came to him as a surprise, and he has not yet decided whether or not to accept it.

Madison—No subpoena for witnesses at the hearing. March 19, on the dismissal of Alex. J. Cobban, former automobile registration clerk of the secretary of state's office, and other charges, will be held in the hearing unless requested by Secretary of State Zimmerman or Mr. Cobban. Secretary A. E. Garvey of the civil service commission declared today that it is likely that no subpoena will be issued until after the initial hearing. It was said, if any material witnesses in the case decide to appear before the service commission, subpoenas will then be issued. A continuance of the hearing also is probable, Mr. Garvey said, if the commission decides to hold a second hearing desired at the first hearing.

Both Mr. Cobban and Secretary Zimmerman will be represented by attorneys at the hearing.

CANDLER WINS VERDICT FROM MRS. BYFIELD
Deerfield, Wis.—A jury today awarded a verdict in favor of Walter T. Candler, Deerfield, Wis., in a suit for $300,000 lost brought against him by Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield, beauty contest winner.

JANESVILLE IS KEY CITY FOR MOTORIST TRAVEL

The enormously increased importance of Janesville as a tourist center is shown by the new highway arrangements just completed by the state highway commission. Janesville is one of the key cities for motorists and the city has the opportunity to capitalize the fact in many ways. No tourist anywhere contemplating a trip to Wisconsin, the world's play ground, should be without information as to the highways centering here and the great opportunities for tours out of this city. The renumbering of highways has made Janesville a key city according to one of the highest authorities of the state, Browne, of the Milwaukee Journal Tour Club.

It is now the junction of four cross state highways instead of three as in 1923. The numbers on these roads will include 16, 20 and 24 all of which entered the city last year and two new ones, 12 and 73.

Highway 20 is the only one that remains unchanged. Highway 16, extending from Detroit to Superior is unchanged except at Janesville. It leaves over old Highway 100 to Wisconsin, where it follows an old county trunk line into Madison. From here north the route remains the same. The old route to Sheboygan over the new road, No. 26, extends from Janesville to Sheboygan.

GOVERNMENT COUNSEL GO TO WASHINGTON TO FILE PLEA
Washington—Glen J. Roberts and Alton Thompson, special counsel for the government in prosecution of the oil suits will leave Washington late today for Chicago to file a plea in the federal court there for a temporary restraining order against the Mammoth company.

There will go to California afterward to bring similar action against the Pan-American Petroleum company. In both cases, the attorneys expect the court to grant the applications and hold the leases in abeyance while the government continues its efforts to cancel them entirely.

WISCONSIN IN THIRD PLACE WITH LEGION
Indianapolis.—Florida led all states in the renewal of American Legion memberships for 1924 and as a result a trophy given by Past National Commander Henry D. Lindsey has been awarded to that state. It is announced at National headquarters of the legion here.

Although membership records in the legion north Jan. 1 and last practically throughout the year, Florida already has 92 percent of the total number of paid up memberships listed for the whole of last year.

Second place in the contests was won by Louisiana of Mexico, which was the same status as a state. Wisconsin was third and Washington fourth.

STATE COURTS MUST DECIDE KANSAS ACT
Washington.—That provision of the Kansas industrial relations court act which prohibited strikes by coal miners must stand or fall on the decision of the Kansas courts. The supreme court so held today in the case of August Dorchy. The decision of the lower federal court was reversed.

ALLEGED GAMBLER HELD IN EDGERTON
Edgerton—Harold Krueger, Chicago, was arrested by Chief of Police Springer, Sunday morning, charged with keeping a gambling house. Krueger was arraigned before Justice J. P. Hughes and his hearing was set for 10 a. m. March 14. He furnished $200 bail. Springer had received complaints and acted on them by raiding the place over the Christmas holidays at 8 a. m. Sunday.

Farm Relief Legislation Gets into a Clumsy Jam With Farm Bloc Split

McNary-Haugen bill is a complicated affair which even Mr. Anderson admits is a mess. It provides that the price of one or more of certain specified farm products, namely wheat, flour, corn, raw cotton, wool, cattle, sheep and swine, or of any of their products, be maintained at a certain level of action at a price level corresponding to the price level of all commodities.

Thus the government would set up a price level for each of the commodities, and would handle the export crop, applying an excise tax of one cent a bushel on the domestic production or applying approximately four cents a bushel from that accumulation to offset losses on export transactions.

Applies Only to Wheat
While McNary-Haugen bill is included within the jurisdiction of the measure, Mr. Anderson thinks the bill has no real application except to wheat. He believes a variety of prices exacted by maintaining because it is necessary if farm prices go up that other prices go down.

The milling interests are complaining that the bill would interfere with their business and that there are others who think the ordinary laws of supply and demand had better be left alone.

What the proponents of the McNary-Haugen bill argue, however, is that the farmer's export could be best handled by the government and that the operation would tend to fix the domestic price of wheat at a higher level.

Higher Wheat Tariff
Meanwhile President Coolidge has proclaimed a higher tariff on wheat in the hope that this will cause the

Washington.—The linking up of Muscle Shoals, Boulder Canyon and the Colorado river in a great public super-power system, functioning under government control, to produce and store electricity, fertilizer and nitrates for explosives on a cost basis, and conservation and use of the nation's resources are the aims of a bill introduced today in the senate by Senator Norris, republican of Nebraska, and in the house by Representative Keller, republican of Minnesota.

Pistol Saves Man from Gland Mutilation; Kills Former Friend; Gives up

Louisville, Ky.—Police and before them today the confession of William Gates, 31, a salesman, who shot and killed his erstwhile friend and former employer, Harold Knutson, 33, a member of the Merchandise Brokerage firm of Heaton and Fisher, after Heaton had kept him a prisoner for two days in a rooming house, today in a rooming house, which apparently was rented by Heaton with the view of murdering Gates.

Three other persons have been questioned and two of them released. Heyde Conrad, a theater organist and friend of Heaton, who spent the night in the house Thursday, was held on a conspiracy charge. W. A. Fisher, Heaton's partner and who stood guard over Gates, was charged with aiding and abetting. He was released. Mrs. Moore, a Chicago detective, quit her assignment of keeping Mrs. Heaton under surveillance the day Gates was kidnapped. She said she saw nothing questionable in the woman's actions.

Gates told the police that he was seized on Thursday night in Heaton's office and taken to the 34th street house. His captors took one pistol from him, but overlooked another. Heaton said he had a pistol in a vest pocket.

He too, had forgotten it. In the excitement but that night when upon him, he discovered it. On Saturday night, a partner said he went to hand cuff him to a bathroom, having taken him to a bathroom, he drew the pistol and, as his captor attempted to obtain a pistol, shot him in the chest.

Mrs. Heaton was on the first floor when the shooting occurred. A physician, attracted by the shots, went into the house and found Heaton dead. Gates left, but yesterday was found at the home of relatives at Anchorage, a suburb.

He was questioned as to the incident, but he refused to answer because of his condition was not pressed too closely.

Insane jealousy of Heaton over his wife was a factor, attributed by the police for the kidnapping and attempted operation.

TESTIMONY IS RESUMED IN $250,000 SUIT

Testimony was resumed in the suit of the Edgerton Highway Trailers company, against the Janesville Electric company, before Judge George Grinnell and the jury in the federal court here Tuesday afternoon. The jury reported at 2 p. m.

A $250,000 civil action case is expected to take the greater part of the week, for it will be Tuesday or Wednesday before the defense presents its case.

Mr. Hinkley, Edgerton, local manager of the Electric company, was scheduled to testify late Tuesday afternoon, being called for an hour and a half by Judge Grinnell, chief counsel for the plaintiff.

FATHER SAVES 3 CHILDREN
Waukegan—Hugo Froehlich was badly burned, Sunday, in rescuing his children from their burning home in the town of Fitch.

Mr. Froehlich was aroused by the screams of the children to find the entire interior of the house aflame. Gained only in his night clothes, Mr. Froehlich rushed out of the two children, aged 3 and 5, then returned for the baby.

Shielding the little one in his arms, he rushed through a wall of flames, sustaining deep wounds about the head, arms and body.

New York.—Edward L. Doheny, denying the charge of Senator Wheeler that he, with Sinclair and other interests, had financed a revolution against the Mexican government, today declared that he had loaned $5,000 to the Obregon government which enabled it to put down the rebellion.

Doheny said Wheeler's statement was made with reckless disregard for the truth.

"I would have been a fool to finance gun runners into Mexico," he said.

"Senator Wheeler's statement, as reported in the press, that he expects to show that E. J. Doheny and others furthered a revolution against the Obregon government in Mexico," said Doheny, "is absolutely false and I am sure the statement of Feb. 19 that Messrs. Sinclair, McClean and I had held meetings in the apartment of Attorney General Daugherty."

Heflin Blows Up Again
Washington.—"Certain subsidized republican newspapers" were charged today in the senate by Senator Heflin, democrat of Alabama, with attempting to "discredit and destroy" every senator who has sought to expose the oil scandal.

COMMITTEE STILL DIGS INTO FILE OF TELEGRAMS
Washington.—The new week of the oil inquiry has produced no new information, but the committee has been busy digging into the file of telegrams it has subpoenaed, but planning soon to branch new supplies of information.

These include the findings of auditors assigned to study the books of brokerage firms to determine the extent of their dealings with oil interests, and the extent of their dealings with the stocks and bonds, and the reports that oil interests sought to influence the republican presidential nomination in 1920.

The oil committee also has before it the nomination of Samuel Knight of San Francisco, to act as special counsel for the government in proceedings to recover two sections of the Elk Hills reserve which are being operated by the Standard Oil company of California, having been granted to the company after the school lands upon its admission to statehood.

McLean's presence at the hearing is expected to be a source of trouble, but the committee plans to question several more of his employees before calling him to the stand.

CLEAR DECKS FOR VOTE ON SHOALS
Other House Matters Shunted Aside Until After Vote on Ford Plan.

Washington.—Muscle Shoals legislation was given right of way in the house today over bills which ordinarily are considered. Monday.

Those in charge of the measure said they were confident a final vote would be reached before the end of the day on Henry Ford's bid for the property.

3 YEARS FOR GIRL'S DEATH
Grand Forks, N. D.—S. A. Jondahl, who pleaded guilty to the criminal administration of drugs to Daniel Anderson, was sentenced today to three years in the state penitentiary, the maximum penalty. The original charge against him was second degree murder, of which his confederate, M. E. Mattison, was convicted as a result of the Anderson case.

FIRE RAZES LARGE BARN
Delaware.—Several thousand dollars damage was done Sunday night by fire which destroyed a large barn containing many tons of hay on the Arthur Grinnell farm, five miles northwest of Delaware. The Grinnell family was away visiting neighbors when notified of the fire. Insurance covers the loss, Mrs. Grinnell said.

MUTINY ENDS IN ERIN ARMY
Dublin.—The mutiny in the ranks of the National army apparently is less serious than at first supposed. It is stated at army headquarters. The responsible officers announced at Templemore, and a quantity of arms and ammunition is missing. A new garrison was sent to the post, and the situation is now normal.

SIX MEN ESCAPE FROM ILLINOIS JAIL
Harrisburg, Ill.—Six prisoners sawed their way out of the county jail here last night and escaped. It was learned today.

THE WEATHER
Mostly cloudy tonight with snow in east portion; somewhat colder; Tuesday, mostly fair, somewhat warmer in southwest portion in afternoon.

HAYES TO BE FIRST NATIVE NEW YORK CATHOLIC CARDINAL

Castle Gate, Utah.—An additional body, unidentified, has been recovered, bringing the total to 19. Daniel Harrington, supervising foreman of the Utah Fuel company mine, said he believed smoke would be gotten out soon.

Castle Gate, Utah.—Eighteen bodies had been recovered from the Utah Fuel company mine number 2 at six o'clock this morning. Many more have been definitely located, according to reports coming to the surface. Rescue work is being rushed and it is expected that night fall will see a major portion of the mine investigated. Indications are that none of the 175 who were entombed by the triple explosion Saturday morning will be found alive.

All available trucks have been called into service to haul bodies. The latest bodies to be recovered are blackened and burned about the face and hands, but identification is easier than for those first brought to the surface.

Ten undertakers are working at the temporary morgue in the Knights of Pythias hall. They say bodies can be handled as fast as they are taken from the mine.

Battle With Fire
The names of those who have been taken out of the mine follow: George Shurtliff, John Kourgas, Loren Pullmer, Gust Lucas, John Buzas, Tony Malak, Alfred Rice, W. A. Berry, John Thayer, mine inspector, George Harrison, Norman Harrison, W. W. Pollock, six unidentified.

Rescue work in the rescue work started at midnight and continued until morning. The crews, held back all day Sunday by fire and gas, began rescue work with powerful vigor at about last night, after they had successfully combated the fire. Before nine o'clock a force of 75 men was engaged in the rescue work. By midnight the work was progressing with a vigor which predicted an early end to the labors.

Gas Is Driven Out
The poisonous gas, arch enemy of the rescue crews, was disappearing in many portions of the mine, according to reports, and in many parts, power was being carried on their investigations.

Relief stations and first aid depots have been established as the workers made headway. Air lines and cavers from the surface started to men advanced, and no chances are taken on other members of the relief force being killed by the fumes.

Last night was one of gloom and sorrow. The rescue work was slow and the town was crowded with relatives of those entombed and with those who had volunteered to aid in the relief work. The rescue work was slow and the town was crowded with relatives of those entombed and with those who had volunteered to aid in the relief work.

Reports from the mine were current throughout the night. A rescue of four men started at the town but this proved false. Different stories were told of the progress made by the relief crews but through the rescue work was constant the failing hope of those who were praying that the miners had benefited by the "chance of a thousand."

Gov. Charles R. Mabey in scene. So is Dan Harrington, veteran of the United States Bureau of Mines, J. W. Richardson, head of the Utah Fuel company, and the Pacific district of the Red Cross, arrived yesterday. Frank N. Cameron, the vice president and general manager, arrived also from California, that it was impossible to make such a guarantee.

Considerable worried inquiry has developed since the announcement of the campaign committee, Saturday, that the drive was in danger of failure. It was said Monday that it may yet become necessary to ask subscribers to double what they have given. Thought is being given to a plan to ask for additional subscriptions to the $100,000.

Stop Work on Plans
Elliot Spaulding, Ashland, the man who has been in charge of the drive, went to Milwaukee and Chicago, Monday, to stop further work upon plans for the hotel until he can be made more certain of the $100,000 being promised and backed.

Replying once more to talk that the hotel will be erected whether the $100,000 is raised or not, it was said at headquarters Monday that the drive was in danger of failure. It was said Monday that it may yet become necessary to ask subscribers to double what they have given. Thought is being given to a plan to ask for additional subscriptions to the $100,000.

Five Escape Joliet; Trio Recaptured
Joliet, Ill.—Locking Keeper Arthur S. Keyes in a solitary confinement cell, tying another guard in the prison straits, five convicts scaled the prison walls Sunday night and escaped. Three of the five were captured eleven miles north of here this morning. Langford, Moran and Kaines, the trio captured, were found in a corn field.

EVANS SUIT FOR $150,000 DISMISSED
Little Rock, Ark.—The $150,000 suit of H. W. Evans, plaintiff, against the Ku Klux Klan against Joseph Simmons, former emperor of the Klan for alleged libel was dismissed in Pulaski circuit court today on motion of the plaintiff and at the plaintiff's cost.

WILL SPEAK IN CHICAGO
Magnolia.—The Rev. J. R. Singleton, a member of the Christian church, will speak at the church here Monday night to Aurora, Ill. Monday, to attend a board meeting and on Wednesday will deliver an address in Chicago at a prophetic convention.

DIES IN CHICAGO
Sharon.—Mrs. Frank Conley, Chicago, a sister of Mrs. Gus Finn, Sharon, died in Chicago, Saturday morning. Funeral services were held in Chicago, Monday, and Mrs. Finn attended the services.

GIRL ADMITS HAVING PART IN 2 HOLDUPS
Whitman, Minn.—Dorothy Lein, 22, arrested here yesterday in connection with recent killing station robberies in St. Paul, has admitted participation in two such robberies and the hold-up of a meat market, police announced today. She was returned to St. Paul today.

The girl told police, they said, that while a man, known to her only as "Geoff," held up the station attendant, she rifled their pockets. They obtained $15 at one station and $25 at another, she is said to have told the police.

STATE SCHOOLS TO CONTEST IN MUSIC

First Annual Event Will Be for Vocal and Instrumental Organizations.

Madison—The first annual state high school music contest will be held here May 8 and 9, under direction of the school of music of the University of Wisconsin, under plans announced by Dr. C. H. Mills, director of the music school. In conjunction with the high school contest a conference of teachers and supervisors also will be held on May 10.

The music contest is an extension of the plan of the interscholastic meet for high school students now carried on along other lines. Contestants must be regularly enrolled students in high schools of the state and must have been enrolled for at least two months before the contest. Contests will be held for groups and for individuals for girls' clubs, mixed choruses, orchestras and bands. Solo competition in voice, piano and violin also will be conducted.

Orchestras and bands will be classed as A, B, C, according to the size of the school from which they come. Groups of schools of 500 or more will be included in class A, those from schools with enrollment of less than 500 coming within class B. The high school winning the greatest number of points will gain possession of the Wisconsin high school championship trophy, a silver loving cup, for one year. Problems common to music supervisors and teachers will be taken up and discussed in detail by experts at the teachers' conference on May 10.

ELECTION BOARDS TO HAVE MEETING

City Manager Proposes Session of 70 Workers With Talk by City Attorney.

Arrangements are being made by City Manager Henry Traxler for a general conference of the 70 election inspectors and clerks of Janesville to be held sometime prior to the spring election, April 3. The session will be an innovation in local election circles and considerable value is expected to be derived from it by the corps of ballot workers.

The conference will be conducted by City Attorney Roger C. Cunningham and will be in form of a school for acquainting the newer members of the boards with the election laws, and reviving them in the minds of the older officials.

One of the features of the meeting will be the distribution of free pamphlets to every election official, entitled "Election Methods of Wisconsin," a guide for election officials and students of state government, prepared under the direction of Secretary of State Fred H. Zimmerman. The book is the first of its kind ever issued in Wisconsin and was published through a small appropriation made by the 1921 legislature which felt the need of some such pamphlet.

While intended first of all for election officers who wish by careful study to prepare themselves for the important work, the secretary of state has also had in mind the many women's clubs, classes in civics, and other organizations interested in good citizenship, which have frequently requested copies of election laws.

Such organizations may obtain copies of the manual from the secretary of state. The city of Janesville has on hand only sufficient copies to supply the 70 election workers.

EXCELLENT BOOKS ARE AVAILABLE

Volumes professionally selected as the most worthy of the new contributions in several classifications are being distributed from the public library. The books were chosen from those recently added to the collection there. Among the titles are "The Secret Service," "Mirrors of Moscow," "Griggs," "Valley of Thousand Smokes," "Jenkins," "Book of Luke," "Gordon's Verse of Our Day," "Loss," "Mexico," and several volumes of plays.

FORMER RESIDENT, 'CIVIL WAR VET,' DIES

Nothing Ever Helped Like Tanlac Says Moe

"I am Astonished At The Results," Says State Official. "About Every Member Of Family Has Used Tanlac."

"Nothing has ever helped me so much as Tanlac. I gained six pounds on the first two bottles, and am making further gains every day as I continue the treatment," the emphatic statement of C. B. Moe, State Deputy Weigh Master, who resides at 1011 31st Ave., North Minneapolis, Minn.

"No appetite, poor digestion and a general run down condition was my trouble and I always felt tired out and lacking in energy. My weight gradually went down to more than twenty pounds below normal."

"Tanalac is building me up wonderfully, my appetite is splendid, my digestion is perfect, and I am rapidly getting stronger and more energetic. In fact, I am astonished at the results, and am going to stick to the treatment until I can call my health perfect. About all the members of our family have used Tanlac, and we all think it a splendid medicine."

True Story of Woodrow Wilson

me unsought, unannounced, and without pledges of any kind, and I have felt obliged to say that I would. This is just the duty I have preached to my classes all my life, and the men I was able to consult (Dodge, Sheldon, Mellon, etc.) have all said what the Chicago men put into this telegram:

"All four concurred unreservedly in the opinion that no objection whatever exists on your part, either to any individual supporter or to the University as a whole, which should deter you from following your own inclination. Question what you had better do is largely personal to yourself. We do not feel sufficiently clear on the subject to advise. We have and will be in form of a school for acquainting the newer members of the boards with the election laws, and reviving them in the minds of the older officials."

Of course the men who are planning my nomination for the governorship look forward to pulling me up for the presidential nomination. But I have not allowed that part of the program to form my opinions as to my duty in the matter of the Governorship. I wish a letter were an endorsement, but it is not. Of course, I am giving you the bare bulk of the thing because I want you to learn of this from me, and be able to give me an opportunity to tell you how happy and proud I have been to win your friendship and support, how deeply I have admired the firmness, the good feeling, the courage, and the unhesitating following of conviction with which you have always acted. It has been a tonic and a blessing to me to have such a friend, and I want to express my deep gratitude and admiration.

"I cherish a sparkling hope that the thing may not, after all, come off; but I fear from present indications that it will."

"I hope that you and your daughters are having a splendid vacation. Mrs. Wilson joins me in warmest regards."

Cordially and Gratefully yours, "Woodrow Wilson."

The men mentioned in the letter are Cleveland H. Dodge, of the Phelps-Dodge copper interests; Cyrus H. McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company; Edward D. Sheldon, president of the United States Trust Company, all four of whom were in Mr. Wilson's class of 1879 at Princeton; David Jones (since deceased) and Thomas D. Jones of Chicago of the class of 1878, twin brothers who became prominent in business affairs in the middle west; M. W. Jacobus of the class of 1877, Dean of the Hartford Theological Seminary, and Charles Colville of the class of 1886, a Chicago lawyer and also alumni trustee.

These men were in the aggregate very wealthy and they were in a position to finance the campaign if need be. Some of them did contribute to the campaign of 1912. All of them remained Mr. Wilson's personal friends throughout his entire life although two of them, Mr. McCormick and Mr. Jacobus, did not support him politically in his last term.

The story of this little group whose support enabled Woodrow Wilson to cast off collegiate ties and take a plunge into the dark of politics is one of the episodes which point clearly to the fact that while he had many breaks in official life he never really abandoned the close personal ties of earlier days. It is a fact that none of these men had official business or political relations with him. They sought nothing. He endeavored to make Thomas D. Jones governor of the Federal Reserve System just after the Federal Reserve Act was passed but a controversy in the Senate prevented confirmation.

Personal friendships—not political or official—they were. No differences of principle or policy could arise to cause friction. There were others too like Robert Bridges, Associate Editor of Scribner's, another classmate, Dean Henry B. Fine of Princeton who was offered the ambassadorship to Germany but declined and Professor William M. Dandies who subsequently became one of the most valued members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, all of whom should be classed as among the really intimate friends of Woodrow Wilson. So was Professor Sheldon Axson of Princeton, a brother of the first Mrs. Wilson. Until the very end they were close to him, always in his thoughts as the unwavering friends of a life-time.

(Formerly's) daughter tells of the steps leading up to Woodrow Wilson's nomination and election to the Presidency.)

WHEN the style question may be so easily solved here, why take chances just anywhere?

"It was about Christmas time last year that two fellows entered the store early on a morning while my father, who is 81 years old, was there alone," said Chief Gilman, testifying at the hearing, Monday.

Riverside Park.

One of the signs of the times and the season is the announcement of the Twilight club and the discussion of the use of the tract of land near the city limits, now the property of the people of Janesville and unofficially known as Riverside Park.

If there is any element lacking in successful municipal government it is that the citizens fail to appreciate the fact that they are the government. Instead of looking at the government as something apart, a thing which can be separated from the public by a line of demarcation, it should be clearly fixed in the minds of the people that they are the whole government. Few persons say "we" when speaking of the city government; they almost invariably say "it" or "they." Just so long as the municipal government is "it" or "they," just so long will the citizens find it harder to make the city they want. It has always been so; is also so in the state and national government. We are great demagogues of action by councilmen who give their time to our affairs when about 50 per cent of the citizens will not even take a half hour to get to the polls and vote once or twice a year. There were 885,000 persons in the state who did not vote in 1922 and this spring, when an election is not so interesting, there will probably be far more stay at home. Outside of participation in the elections the majority of citizens have not concerned themselves deeply in municipal affairs except on the negative side in certain matters affecting them personally from time to time.

But Riverside Park presents the necessity for a different attitude. What is needed is a basketful of suggestions from citizens as to what should be done, about how much of our money should be spent on the park to make it what it should be—the play and recreation place for the people. We took a score or more of picnics and other events away from the city last summer. They went to Yost park or to Delavan or somewhere because Riverside was not in a position to care for them. V. K. Brown, head of the playgrounds for the South Parks of Chicago, the greatest park system in the world, in looking over Riverside, said it was capable of being made into a great and beautiful outing place. He called attention to the natural amphitheater or auditorium out of doors where there could be arranged plays and outdoor operas by musical organizations, band concerts and pageants. A public golf course and all manner of arrangements for participating games were also possible. He suggested a swimming pool—a large one inside the shores of the river, where clean water could be used and this to be made by the boys of the city themselves.

It is hoped that the Twilight club will go into this matter deeply and that it will be the means of starting something in which every citizen is a partner and a possible participant.

It seems that Ed. McLean cannot stay hitched even to his Washington Post.

And Without a Hotel?

Janesville has assumed a new and important position on the state map as a tourist center with the renumbering and remaking of the state highway system by the highway commission. It is called the "Key City" in the north bound tourist traffic. With the completion of the Meridian highway between the Illinois line and Cairo, and the new surfaced roads in Illinois to other points on the Ohio river, the tourist travel will be pouring through Janesville from the south. What have we to offer?

We have a real reason for a hotel outside the one that there are not even ample hotel accommodations for the present traveling public which uses the hotel as a commercial necessity.

There is no citizen with a minimum of $100 to spare that cannot make a good investment in the projected hotel, since each dollar expended here will have something to do with adding to the general prosperity and advancement of the city. It will bring other dollars to take the place of the ones invested—dollars now going to some other city and passing by and through Janesville. Will you help build such a hotel?

One of the noted changes in the attitude of our young people is seen in their reluctance to shovel off the walks.

Marriage and Divorce Legislation

By FREDERICK J. HANKIN.

Washington.—Uniform marriage and divorce legislation is one of the important problems pending before Congress which have been shadowed by the sensational investigation that have monopolized the news from the national capital. A subcommittee of the house committee on the judiciary has the subject under consideration and if congress acts favorably on the proposal now before it the next step will be action by the states on a constitutional amendment under which the laws on marriage and divorce, on the question of the legitimacy of children, and on the care and custody of children affected by the annulment of marriages or by divorces, may be made uniform throughout the United States.

With respect to marriage it is proposed that no ceremony may be performed without a license, application for which must be made two weeks in advance, published in a newspaper and posted in the county clerk's office, and the marriage of bigamies, the insane, the tubercular, the epileptic, and those related within immediate families, would be prohibited.

As to divorce, decrees would be obtainable only on the grounds of adultery, cruel or inhuman treatment, abandonment or failure to provide for a period of a year, incurable insanity, or the conviction of either party of the crime of murder. Defendants in divorce actions would be required to appear in court, or failing to do so, representatives would be designated by an officer of the court to appear for them.

An amendment for uniform laws regulating marriage and divorce is one of the measures that is backed by the women's joint congressional committee, which is made up of seventeen national organizations composed exclusively of women, or in which women are largely represented. It is not part of the committee's program for which an especial drive is being made at the present session, but six of the seventeen member organizations have endorsed it formally. This means that the question will never be dropped, and that sooner or later congress will act upon it.

Agitation of the divorce problem in a national way dates back almost 50 years. At that time there were not data by which the extent of the growth of divorce in the country at large could be gauged, or by which the seriousness of the situation with respect to the differences in state laws could be impressed on the public. In the 80's there was so much discussion of the subject that the 48th congress was stirred to action and a bill was passed authorizing a census of the married and divorced population of the country. The report covered a period of 20 years, from 1857 to 1876, and showed a total of 228,716 divorces.

This report led to renewed discussion from press, pulpit and public platform, but that was all. No federal census was again taken until 1916 and then only for one year, showing a total of 112,936 divorces. In 1922 there were 148,554.

The laws of the several states governing divorce are so different that the details could not be set forth in a newspaper article. It may be said, however, that they range in character from the most rigid to those of the widest latitude. In one state, indeed—South Carolina—there can be no divorce save by action of the legislature, and in New York, as in the District of Columbia, adultery is the only ground recognized by law for absolute divorce. In a few states the laws are so liberal that divorces may be secured on grounds as slight as mere incompatibility of temperament, or, as has been facetiously observed, because one party to the marital contract does not like the color of the other's hair.

Government statistics so far collated indicate that the third, fourth and fifth years of marriage are the ones in which it is most difficult to keep the home fires burning, for the largest proportion of divorces are granted in those years, being about eight per cent of the whole for each of those years. About five per cent were granted in the first year, and seven per cent in each of the second and sixth years. A fair of the total number of divorces were granted before the close of the fifth year of marriage.

Geographically, the larger percentage of divorces granted obtains in the west, being almost four times that of the Atlantic seaboard states. The central section shows a rate about 2-3 that of the east.

There are more divorces, in proportion to the population, in the United States than in Europe, or were at the time of the last official comparison. The number of divorce courts in this country may account in a large measure for this difference, nearly every county in New England, New Jersey, New York and South Carolina, or about 3,000 courts, having the power to grant divorces. In England there is but one divorce court; in Germany there are, or were, 25 and in France, 79. Canada has comparatively few divorces. In one 21-year period there were but 94 divorces in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and 41 in all the rest of the dominion.

The divorce laws of the ancients are interesting in the light of the present day problem and of many things that happen in the 20th century. For instance, the early laws of Rome permitted the husband to divorce his wife for poisoning his children, counterfeiting his keys for adultery. There was nothing said about a wife's picking her husband's pockets, but probably that was because the men of those days did not wear pants.

Again, by the Theodosian code the husband could divorce his wife if she was a witch, committed sacrilege, violated a sepulchre, was given to feasting with strangers without the knowledge of or against the wishes of the husband, lodged abroad without good reason, frequented theaters and shows when the husband had commanded her not to do so, or had been "offered blows."

One of the strongest pieces of property law, the uniformity of marriage and divorce laws is to be found in a motion picture recently exhibited throughout the country. It portrayed the troubles of a man who had been twice divorced and twice remarried, but who was still married to his first wife in one state, to his second in another, and to his third in others.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

J. P.

This you may never know, but your son knows, That when you passed upon your bier there came Rich proof that honor builds earth's lasting fame.

That gentleness, in earth, more brightly glows Than the harsh conquest o'er fallen foes; That though from life you were content to claim The lesser joys, the splendor of your name With high distinction, to the rich, the poor, the lame He saw them come, the rich, the poor, the lame He bowed.

In solemn tribute to the man they'd known— Oh, gentle friend, earth's greatest could be proud Such true devotion and such love to own! No wealth, not conquest with such honest tears As those which closed the record of your years. (Copyright, 1924, by Edgar A. Guest)

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 1924.

This is read as a doubtful day, for astrologers find that the planetary direction is not positively good or bad.

The adverse aspects are strongest in the morning, rising up to noon and during this time the influences may be disruptive, tending toward disintegration rather than concentration.

The influences of the stars may incline toward haste, impulsive decisions and premature activity.

The rule today is held as unfavorable for important business matters and especially for initiative that may involve sustained effort along any given line of work.

After the noon conditions should improve, the influences being soothing and encouraging mental poise.

Amusements are fairly well directed in the evening when there should be responsive audiences and good financial results. The planetary aspects that appear to favor foreign artists of every sort are still strong and will be operative well into next season when the vogue of Americans will gain great headway.

The influences noted with the new moon and regarding many deaths of prominent men and women will be apparent as this month closes.

Against serious accident involving many deaths is prophesied and the seers prophesy that the year will be marked by many sensational events.

New leaders are to rise in all parts of the world, if the stars are read aright, and many heads of government will be changed before the end of 1925.

The aspects read as presaging scandals and bels leading men and women in high places all are strongly prophetic of revolutions that will continue to shock the world.

Railways are to have an unfortunate period during the spring and should prepare for many accidents.

Persons whose birthdate is 11 have the augury of a quiet, prosperous year in which business affairs will proceed as usual.

Children born on this day probably will have uneventful years, which means that they have a chance to be happy. These subjects of Pisces often have great ability to make money or to attain high social position.

WHAT IS "PROGRESSIVISM?"

An innocent bystander might say that progressivism is a name for the kind of men and women who call themselves progressives are supposed to be driving at, but we don't happen to know any progressive, sprouted, nurtured and reared under existing primary systems, who would subscribe to this definition. Each and every progressive, no matter how we observe, interprets progressivism as the sum of what he thinks, and not the sum of what he and others think. And after all, isn't he alone right? You can't add six eggs and two sadistic dogs and get any result except six eggs and two sadistic dogs. You can't make much of a composite out of an elephant and a mail truck. They have mighty little in common and they don't merge worth a whoop.

We feel so sure that the chap was a typical progressive who said at the party in a friend's house: "Now let's all talk about me."—Minneapolis Tribune.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

March 10, 1884.—It is said there is now at least a foot and a half of snow on the ground on the level—and many anticipate a snow on the river, when the thaw comes.—St. Paul's church was filled last night for the lecture, "Christian Charity," by the pastor, the Rev. Father McGinnity.

March 10, 1884.—A scientific effort is to be made by E. M. C. A. supporters to complete subscriptions for the new building, on which work will soon commence.—Master services will be observed in the churches on Sunday, March 25.—Captain Glass is preparing his men for the annual inspection.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

March 10, 1904.—Sixty agriculturist students arrived in the city this afternoon to inspect the horses of the Gallatin stables. They came from Oconomowoc and Port Atkinson. Tomorrow they will visit the farms of McWay brothers and on Saturday will go to Beloit.—T. J. McKeigue, Mr. Rife and Fred Schmidt are in charge of the Trades Council ball.

TEN YEARS AGO

March 10, 1914.—C. W. Weyers was severely injured in a fall from a telephone pole on St. Lawrence avenue this morning.—The high school debating trio, consisting of Carl Schooff, George Spohn and Karl Eickert will go to La Grange, Ill., Friday, to compete in the Beloit college league.

I WILL PUT MY SPIRIT within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them. And ye shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers; and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.—Ezekiel 36:27, 28.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

EXECUTIVE RESPONSIBILITY

As an excuse for absence from school, work or business is valid only when there is evidence that the absence has actually been out to the theater, dance, ball game, or some other place of amusement. "Business" is a moral right to attend unmolested any gathering where he exposes others to his infection, and if the illness does not require isolation at home, a person should then the individual is as well in school or at business as anywhere else.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Phthisis People Know Which Aint So.

You have heard of the germ test of testing one's own heart function and the method testing urine for sugar. Now why not tell us to go about the phthisis people, the phthisis people, as phthisis has been shown, just how much absenteeism should be ascribed to alleged "colds" in school, business or work, is an uncertain question, for it is difficult to gauge the proportion of actual illness or indisposition and the proportion of absenteeism due to "colds" as an excuse for absence, granting as much as you like to be unexcused at school, business or work, is an uncertain question, for it is difficult to gauge the proportion of actual illness or indisposition and the proportion of absenteeism due to "Don't you worry about me, I'm all right. I can look out for myself."

"You showed that to-night by leaving the door open?"

"I hope someone does come around," she said with a mischievous smile.

As she spoke she lifted the pan. Under it, on her lap, lay a six-shooter.

"He eyed the six-shooter with a frank distaste. "More and more you make it plain you need somebody to take care of you. You'd better change your mind about what I told you. I'd take care of you and I'd be good to you as I know how, and I wouldn't bother you any. I know you don't love me. It's a business proposition, that's all. You needn't be afraid I'd ever take advantage."

"You're not that kind," she said in a low tone, her head bent over her work.

"And it would be a good thing for me," he pursued cunningly, "to have somebody to look after the ranch house. Of course, you'd have your allowance too, for yourself and the house. Shucks, girl, you'd be just like my housekeeper, only you'd have my name, and you'd be sure. Think of that. Nobody would touch you. You wouldn't need that gun in your lap down at the Slush P." "I don't know that I want to be safe."

"You're foolish. Blamed foolish. You don't realize what you're up against here."

"Oh, don't!"

"No, you don't, or you'd take me up."

She shook a decisive head, but the look her blue eyes flashed him was untranslatable. "You mean well, and I'm grateful, but I can't do it. Still, if it wasn't that I've got other plans anyway, it would be impossible. Marrying you that—that way wouldn't be safe to me, either. Why, we'd be cheating ourselves of the greatest thing in the world."

"Love. Love is the greatest thing in the world. I'd be cheating ourselves of that."

"You don't know what you're talking about."

"That's the very reason why I want to be able to find out. I'm married to you, I'm tied."

"Oh, that'll be all right," he said eagerly. "As soon as you find somebody you don't like, you can get a divorce. See, just like that. Fix it too easy, and in the meantime you'll be safe."

Again she shook her head. "I don't believe in divorce. When I

Dinner Stories

"It says here, 'One of the idols most revered by heathen is a figure of a woman, seated, resting her figure on her hands,'" said Mrs. Farr, reading from a book.

"Which proves they are about the same," said Mr. Farr.

"How so, Orin?"

"Well," said Mr. Farr, with emphasis, "because they make a deity of a woman who has sense enough to give her chin a rest."

"Huh?"

"Love. Love is the greatest thing in the world. I'd be cheating ourselves of that."

"You don't know what you're talking about."

"That's the very reason why I want to be able to find out. I'm married to you, I'm tied."

Alkali in Shampoos Bad for Washing Hair

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else at its price. You can get this in any drug store, and few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonsfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in creamy lather abundance of rich, soft, dense suds, and clean your hair dries quickly and evenly, and is looking bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

FOR MORE THAN a decade University of Wisconsin teams have contested annually with those of Minnesota and Chicago in every branch of athletics which each maintains, according to a bulletin just issued by the Madison athletic department. This record is not equaled by any other school in the conference when the number of events is considered. It is peculiar to note with this announcement the fact that relations between these three schools have perhaps been better than with any others of the western conference. Under the terms of the old Milwaukee championship which was in effect until 1910, the University of Wisconsin changed a date on its football schedule for next fall and also the place for the playing of the game and instead of holding it in Minneapolis, it was to be played in Madison for the sake of giving Wisconsin a better home number of games. And with the Maroons, the relations have been wonderfully fine.

WISCONSIN meets Minnesota annually in football, baseball, track, wrestling, swimming, gymnastics, fencing, tennis and ice hockey. Until the conference adopted the "round robin" basketball schedule, the Badgers also met the Gophers in basketball. The Badgers play Chicago in 10 events, also: Football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, tennis, gymnastics, fencing and golf.

WHEN MINNESOTA maintains a golf team, the Badgers will be the first on their schedule and if Chicago takes on hockey they will meet the Badgers. The two schools are now trying to interest both institutions in rowing and before many years hope to meet crews from the schools. The University of Wisconsin fosters the widest athletic program of any school in the middle west and is equalled only by Dartmouth in the east. So the end line is thinking of selecting a school because of its athletic prowess, should not pass up that of his own state.

Illinois looks good to take western conference track meet at Chicago next Saturday.

Edo Hedd, Chicago, won senior indoor skating title; Allen Petrie, Milwaukee, won junior title; Rose Johnson, Chicago, grabbed girls' western title.

Carnegie foundation urges placing control of college athletics in hands of college presidents and faculties to curb "evils."

BASKETBALL DRUMBLES
With but three contests remaining in the Big Ten race for basketball title, the three teams which are left—Chicago, Iowa and Northwestern—have a long way to go. Chicago is sure of share of glory, but can only gain exclusive claim to the pennant by defeating Wisconsin, the western champion, in the final game of the season. The Badgers lost their opportunity for a clear claim to first place by losing Saturday's battle to Iowa. Hawkeyes defeated Wisconsin, 22-19, and have another chance in their return meet Tuesday night. If Wisconsin can turn tables, and then win from Chicago next weekend, they will be the Midwest champion. The Badgers will place by defeating Michigan, 23-20, Saturday night, but must overcome another obstacle to stay there. Illinois takes the place of the Badgers in the final game of the season. Should they emerge victors, they must first defeat Wisconsin to claim the title. The Badgers will place by defeating Michigan, 23-20, Saturday night, but must overcome another obstacle to stay there. Trials to be held in May at eight cities for Olympic material.

Al. Huhn, 16-year old Kohler boy, hits 570 and 677 at A. B. C. bowling meet.

Wille Hopp, 18.2 baseline cue champion, and Jack Schaeffer, chukker, to exhibit at Milwaukee Monday.

TRAINING CAMP CHAPTER
Manager McGraw of Giants says Cincinnati will offer New York strongest opposition this year in pennant struggle. McGraw says New York should report in American league and have no serious competition. Pittsburgh may prove trouble, some if Carson Bigley plays. McGraw says New York predicted Boston would finish in first division ahead of Chicago and St. Louis while Brooklyn will need new infield strength to improve over last year. McGraw's contract runs for three years more and he believes he will be with Giants after that. Yankee recruits beat New Orleans, 14-13, Sunday when Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis and Cincinnati were in the lineup. McGraw was hit hard in first two innings, while Fred Newberry, Minn. G., and Argenillo, Mexico, did well. Manager McGraw says Yankees and regulars will train separately. While Sox rookies ready for practice Monday after rain Sunday. Sox will have a full team in action by March 17. Cubs nursing defeat by Vernon Bengals, 8-7, due to Ernie Osborne's failure as rescuer when sent in to save game in ninth.

Blues Beat St. Johns in Last Scheduled Contest

Copyright 1920, by Geo. McManus

Coming back strongly in the last game, Janesville High school basketball team concluded its home season Saturday night by taking St. John's Cathedral high of Milwaukee into camp, 21 to 10. The contest was booked at the last minute when Coach Edward H. Gibson received word at 1 p. m. Saturday that St. John's could come to Janesville for a game. The school was not until after St. John's had played at Rockford that they were able to come here.

The game saw the last home appearance of three of the Janesville team. They were Palmer, Kalin and Clark. It also witnessed a member of the first 300 local champion team playing with an opponent for the second time, center for St. John's, was center on the 1922-23 Blues.

Show in St. Johns.
Janesville was busy in getting started, Saturday. The Blues were far in the rear, 9 to 1, when the first quarter closed and at half time 9-10 still behind. In the third quarter, the Blues were weak and at times it looked as if they were going to have no show of grabbing a victory. A little shift in the fourth quarter, however, changed their style and when they returned to the fra after the intermission they showed new form.

Take Milton and Brodhead into Home Talent League

Two towns were admitted to franchises in Southern Wisconsin Home Talent Baseball league and two dropped at a meeting of the board of directors held at the Grand hotel, Sunday afternoon. The American Legion and Brodhead were accepted as new members. Stoughton and Deerfield were replaced. Deerfield plans to go into the inter-county league this year. A special ruling was made in the case of Cambridge this season to permit that team to use Percy Mickey O'Neil as pitcher. O'Neil has played most of his baseball career at Cambridge.

The league is now composed of Cambridge, Port Atkinson, Edgerton, Janesville, Milton and Brodhead. Brodhead will play its games up on a new diamond to be constructed at Bluff view park. Milton may play at Charley Bluff. Lake Koshongong, in which event the diamond will be reconstructed.

A banner for the 1923 championship of the circuit was presented to Port Atkinson following a dinner, given by the Gazette, in a short speech by the local players.

An interesting bit of news was divulged by Otto Byer vice-president of the league, to the effect that the Port Atkinson team will develop a new diamond to be constructed at Bluff view park.

Oregon Best Bet at Brodhead Meet

Copyright 1920, by Geo. McManus

If the dope goes right, as indicated by the season's records for the several teams, Oregon high school looks like the strongest bet for the Oregon basketball tournament, which will open at Brodhead high school next Thursday morning.

A close study of the scores of the eight teams entered, placing the points made during the season and the counts made against each team, leaves Oregon far ahead of the others. Inasmuch as home of the team as a matter of course, school, the only possible manner of comparing them is through the points piled up by each outfit and how good they were in keeping their opponents from scoring.

On this method, Oregon is shown leading the rest with an index figure of 21. That is quite a bit ahead of the nearest competitor, for 15.

The index follows:
Oregon, 21; Astoria, 15; Brodhead, 13; New Glarus, 12; Wisconsin high, 7; Monroe, 3; Lodi, minus 1; Monticello, minus 8.

By this method of figuring there is not much guessing. It is all down in black and white. It stands to reason even if a team schedules, or happens to play, a bunch of weaker teams than another, its offensive scoring should show up much larger than the counts made by its opponents. That is except where a coach begins running in his own mind for the purpose of giving them an opportunity to play.

This method, therefore, stops all argument that such-and-such a team are the American Legion, Jefferson American Legion, Jefferson Wagon company of the national guard and the Milton Badgers. The Janesville teams are the American Legion, Y. M. C. A., Triangles, American Legion and the Chevrolet. The Parker Pen team of Janesville may also come in, making 10 entries.

Entries will close at the local Y. M. C. A. at 3:30 p. m. Monday. They will be accepted by telephone. Mr. Bergman states. All entries received Tuesday before a Monday postmark will be considered.

The games eligibility committee is to meet Monday afternoon to go over the entries and to determine the eligibility of the players submitted to determine their eligibility.

The most looks like the strongest of its kind. Interest is far greater this year than ever in the past and competition should be close.

Here is the entry blank. Clip and mail to Mr. Bergman at the Janesville Y. M. C. A. This is your last chance.
